EXPERIENCE

What I've enjoyed most about AO is the environment and the relationships I've made. AO is a unique place in terms of what it offers. For a firm so big, it feels very small in the way you engage with your peers. I've found that there are almost no barriers to communication between my co-workers, whether they're a partner or starting designer. Because of this, regardless of whether I enjoy my specific job that day, I enjoy my time here when I come in.

I greatly enjoyed my experience at AO. I had the opportunity to create site plans and renderings for clients and the public, in addition to getting to visit many projects in varying phases of construction. I was lucky to work with such great individuals in a culture that values relationships and design. These values are apparent in the work and culture of AO, in a way that excites me about the possibilities in my future designing architecture that is rooted in community.
